Suzanne L. Davis, PhD

DIRECTOR

sdavis1@decisionquest.com

Suzanne L. Davis is a Social Psychologist and Litigation Consultant located in Atlanta, Georgia. Suzanne is an expert in designing and conducting all phases of pre-trial jury research, including mock trials and focus groups, and in translating research results into practical trial strategies. She has helped clients transform witnesses into persuasive communicators, and she is particularly adept at monitoring trials and providing actionable strategies on the spot. Additionally, she has interviewed hundreds of jurors after trial, identifying how they processed case evidence and reached their verdicts.

Suzanne has experience in a variety of cases, including insurance coverage/bad faith, pharmaceutical, intellectual property, professional malpractice, antitrust, contract disputes, employment, toxic tort, securities, medical malpractice, and product liability matters. She has worked across the country in multiple venues, including Alabama, California, Georgia, Illinois, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, New Jersey, New York, Oklahoma, and Texas.

Suzanne has written numerous articles and book chapters on psychology and law issues, and she has spoken at national and regional conferences attended by trial counsel and risk managers.

In her past life, Suzanne was an Assistant Professor of Psychology at the University of Northern Iowa and has also taught as an online instructor for the University of Phoenix. Suzanne enjoys writing in her spare time and has authored one novel.
